IT IS my firm belief that Singapore is the ideal environment to host the first ever Youth Olympics. Singapore, with its vast technology infrastructure, world-class security, easily accessible venues and accommodation, coupled with an honest and caring pool of volunteers, has all the necessary ingredients to unite and set the stage for the athletes to rise to the challenge ahead of them.

The opportunity for Singapore to host the Youth Olympics will be a driving force to propel Singapore into sporting history and inspire our nation to produce true sporting legends.

In recognition of Singapore's intention and desire to host the Games, Genovate would like to seize this opportunity to use our full service technology capabilities to create and host the young athletes' community Web portal.

Through this portal we hope that all athletes who compete can create their own sporting profiles and engage with their supporters around the world, unifying the bonds and encouragement that they will need to drive them to success at the Olympics.
